Dallas, TX, USA, April 21, 2025 -- J. Garrett Auctioneersâ€™ online-only Spring Fine Estates Auction, slated for Saturday, May 3rd, starting at 10am Central time, will showcase an exceptional selection of fine art, antiques and fine jewelry. Headlining the event are remarkable artworks by women artists, led by a standout large-scale piece by the American abstract expressionist artist Alice Baber. Also featured is a wonderful night scene by American Modernist artist Susan Hertel. Â An important collection of Rookwood pottery will be offered throughout the sale, including pieces by Harriet Wilcox, Sara Sax and other celebrated artisans. Balancing the female energy, collectors will appreciate fine works by male artists such as Robert Daughters, Joseph Henry Sharp, George Hallmark, Robert Wood, Roger Muhl, Albert Valentien and others. Â As always, J. Garrett has curated a fine selection of designer jewelry, with stunning pieces by Harry Winston, Cartier, Jean Mahie, Henry Dunay, Tiffany & Co., and more. Other lots to watch include a pair of rare French pedestals attributed to Charles Guillaume Diehl, a Picasso Madoura platter, a monumental 19th-century French gilt bronze clock garniture and more. Â Largely overlooked since her death at age 54, Alice Baber (1928-1982) is once again receiving recognition alongside her contemporaries Helen Frankenthaler and Elaine de Kooning. The work in the auction, an oil on canvas from 1977 titled The Drum Road of the Jaguar, features brilliantly colored biomorphic forms. Itâ€™s signed, titled and dated on verso and measures 58 inches by 77 inches (canvas, less frame). Paintings by Baber can be found at the MET, the Guggenheim and museums throughout the world. Estimate: $60,000-$120,000. Â The oil on canvas by Susan Hertel (1930-1992) is titled Pasture at Night, Two Horses, Two Dogs. The painting measures 43 inches by 60 inches (canvas, minus the blonde wood frame). Itâ€™s signed lower center and titled on an Ankrum Gallery (Los Angeles) label. Hertel often used photos of her family and animals from her ranches in California and New Mexico as a starting point. This work suggests a family snapshot inspired her. Estimate: $12,000-$20,000. Â A diminutive oil on canvas laid on board by Joseph Henry Sharp (American, 1859-1953), titled Indian Encampment at Sunset, is 5 Â¼ inches by 7 inches and housed in a later linen and giltwood frame. The work is signed lower right and has exhibition labels on verso. It was previously offered as lot #141 in a Bonhams auction held in 2019. Estimate: $8,000-$12,000. Â An oil on canvas by Robert Daughters (American, 1929-2013), titled Chamisa Field, boasts strong colors and measures 24 inches by 36 inches (canvas, minus the carved and gilt wood frame). Itâ€™s signed lower right and is titled on a paper logo verso. Estimate: $8,000-$12,000. Â The jewelry category will be led by a 5-carat brilliant cut diamond set in 14k white gold. The center stone is of F color and Si2 clarity and is flanked by approximately 0.50 ctw diamonds. The total weight is 4.4 grams on the size 7 ring. It has a pre-sale estimate of $40,000-$50,000.
