Message

Montreal, Quebec (prsafe) October 30th, 2025 - Future Electronics, a global leading distributor of electronic components, announced a cash donation to West Island Community Shares as part of its Build Hope Together charitable initiative. The donation was presented during the company's Thanksgiving luncheon, which brought together more than 700 employees and representatives from six local charities.

This contribution marks the second consecutive year that Future Electronics has supported West Island Community Shares™ this time with an increased donation that will fund programs for underprivileged children and teens across the West Island region.

"At Future Electronics, giving back is part of who we are," said Georgia Genovezos, Corporate Vice President of Digital Marketing at Future Electronics. "Our partnership with West Island Community Shares allows us to directly impact young people in our local community and help them build stronger, more resilient futures."

West Island Community Shares distributes funds to dozens of community organizations that provide essential services, mentorship, and development opportunities for youth. Their mission to build a more inclusive and supportive West Island aligns closely with Future Electronics' core values of compassion, collaboration, and community impact.

Through Build Hope Together, Future Electronics continues to channel employee-driven philanthropy toward causes that uplift women, children, and families in need™ fostering long-term partnerships that make a tangible difference in local communities.
