Montreal, Quebec (prsafe) August 31, 2026 - Future Electronics, a global leader in electronic component distribution, is proud to announce that it has been named GCT's Global Distributor of the Year for 2025.

The award was presented by Richard Clark, Global Distribution Manager at GCT, during regional meetings between the senior management teams of both companies across EMEA, APAC, and the Americas. Ryan Petsche, Corporate Vice President of Product Marketing at Future Electronics, accepted the award on behalf of the company.

For more than 35 years, GCT has been a trusted manufacturer of connector and cable assembly solutions, helping customers around the world build reliable connectivity into their electronic designs.

The recognition follows a year of significant achievements between the two organizations, including strong sales growth across multiple regions and continued development of new business opportunities. By working closely together to support customers from concept through production, Future Electronics and GCT have expanded their ability to bring innovative interconnect solutions to market.

"Future Electronics is a worthy winner of this award for 2025, a year in which our companies strengthened our partnership and achieved significant sales revenue milestones in all three geographical regions. Additionally, through close co-operation we have continued to significantly develop the new project funnel to enable further mutual growth," said Richard Clark, Global Distribution Manager at GCT.

"Being recognized as GCT's Global Distributor of the Year reflects the strength of our partnership and our focus on execution. Together, we've built a proven record of delivering solutions that drive value for our mutual customers," said Ryan Petsche, Corporate Vice President of Product Marketing at Future Electronics.

Future Electronics is honored to receive this recognition from GCT and looks forward to continuing a successful partnership built on innovation, trust, and shared success.
