Summary

Future Electronics has launched a new video series called TechVentures with Lazina focused on sensors and wireless connectivity.

Message

Future Electronics, a global leading distributor of electronic components, recently launched a new video series on their YouTube channel.

TechVentures with Lazina is a series of engaging and informative videos that explore the latest applications of Future Electronics' cutting-edge sensors and wireless connectivity portfolio. TechVentures is hosted by Lazina Rahman, a Technical Marketing Engineer at Future Electronics.

In the first video of the series, Lazina reviewed four ways you can read the Panasonic GridEye sensor on the Compagno Board. The second Techventures video looked at two different ways of reading the Compagno board's Sensirion CO2 sensor values.

The response to the TechVentures series has been very positive, and new videos are due to be released in the coming weeks and months. To view the latest TechVentures videos, visit Future's YouTube channel here:
